The Anchor of Motherhood. A resistance to the world around. The world has changed, my existence is so different now, Sanna Helena Berger wrote me. I soon walked by the big anchor in Nyhavn, placed there as a monument for the death of the civilian sailors who lost their life during Second World War. Now all anchors are sculptures from the old world of industrial history, remembrance of how the forms of our language and loves are made. I watched a floor plan of a fortress from Frankfurt am main. Field marshal Kreuz was send around Germany to study the forms of surviving. I felt it homelike, thinking about how Copenhagen is formed in stars and ramparts, I grew up in this architecture made to prevent attacks from the outside. I'm a little maid, drinking champagne at the pop stars tables, I'm doing like my great grandmas doing, my family been living around here for ages, all maids in this architecture of war. My family name is Von Magius, but my grandma left it at the second WW Everything broke, her father was taken to concentration camp and her mother continued resistance, isolated, scared of the nazis, they went underground, told people there name was Madsen and there house was bombed at the failed attack by the English army at the French school at Frederiksberg. It was a lie, but it kept them safe for a while. My good friend Mateusz always imagine his new friends in a situation at a party 1939, if he could imagine them rise their right arm in the hype of the war he wouldn't ever get close to them. He is from Poland his family knows well of what the end of history looks like, It's a good test of people. Don't go home with the army boys. Take care of Mama Anchor.

Hvad synes du om turismen på Christiania?

Kære alle, vi er to studerende, som skriver speciale om turismen på Christiania og hvordan de lokale sammen kan håndtere den stigende mængde af turister. Vi vil rigtig gerne tale med jer og høre jeres meninger og tanker om emnet og forhåbentligt bidrage med en større forståelse af hvordan turismen påvirker jeres hverdag.

Tirsdag d. 10 marts sidder vi ude foran indkøbscentralen mellem 13:00 og 15:00 med hjemmelavet kage, så kom gerne forbi til en lille snak!

Vi glæder os til at tale med jer!

De bedste hilsner

Kristy & Thea
